

TASMANIAN ROSEMARY

(Rosmarinus officinalis)

DATA DETAILS

Cultivated and grown in the hills of Tasmania, our Rosemary oil is an α -pinene chemotype with a complex yet clean aroma with refreshing alpine notes balanced by a sweet floral background.

Long considered sacred by ancient cultures, Rosemary is a highly aromatic herb with many remedial benefits. The essential oil has been revered for its renewing properties that support cognitive functions, focus and concentration. The oil also can aid healthy digestion and has antioxidant, antimicrobial and anti-inflammatory properties.

Our Rosemary oil is produced from an artisanal cottage herb cultivar specifically primed for Tasmania's cooler growing conditions. With a chemical profile that is rich in α -pinene, a monoterpene known to support healthy immune and respiratory functions, it contains additional primary constituents including 1,8-cineole (another respiratory support molecule) and verbenone, bringing balance to its herbaceous aroma.

As a beloved culinary herb, Rosemary has a deeply comforting and familiar aroma, reminiscent of cosy roast dinners and kitchen gardens. It has an affinity with strong flavours, matching the earthiness of root vegetables and the sweetness of honey particularly well.

We are pleased to offer this diverse aromatic oil produced from crops grown both conventionally and organically. Its softly-scented and organically-certified hydrosol (ideal for use in room sprays, skincare or hair care products) is also available.

PRODUCT INFORMATION

CAS NUMBER : 8000-25-7

FEMA NUMBER : 2992

BOTANICAL NAME: Rosmarinus officinalis ct. α -pinene

DESCRIPTION: The essential oil produced from the leaves and flowering parts of the perennial herb Rosmarinus officinalis.

AROMA: Energising herbaceous scent with notes of alpine freshness and culinary familiarity.

EXTRACTION: Steam distilled from the leaves of a high α -pinene variety of Rosmarinus officinalis.

APPLICATIONS: Flavour, aromatherapy, personal care, complementary medicines.

VARIANTS:

Tasmanian Rosemary Oil

Organic Tasmanian Rosemary Oil

Organic Tasmanian Rosemary Hydrosol

